N. B. It always has been and will no doubt continue to be very difficult for teachers of the Piano Forte to induce their pupils to practice the Scales and Arpeggio exercises sufficiently and in accordance with teachers directions. This no doubt is attributable to the fact that scales and exercises are generally written in one or at most two octaves ascending and descending every measure commencing on the Key note, with the sign of repetition at the end, which sign is seldom if ever noticed.

The object of the present publication is to present the exercises in such a form as to render them interesting to the pupil, and thus make them desire rather than dislike the practice and the scale and arpeggios are so arranged that each succeeding measure commences with a different note so that in the course of the exercise the rythmical accent will fall upon every note of the scale. The same arrangement can be transposed to any Key and should be practiced in all the Keys. Hoping it may prove interesting it is recommended as a daily practice in order that it may be extensively useful.

ETUDE POUR LE ARPEGGIO.

The musical score consists of seven systems, each with a piano (p) and guitar (g) part. The piano part is written in treble clef, and the guitar part is in bass clef. Both parts are in common time (C). The score features complex arpeggiated patterns with various fingering instructions (e.g., 1 2 + 1 2, 4 3 1 + 2 1 +) and dynamic markings such as gr and loco. The guitar part includes a capo on the second fret. The piece concludes with a final gr and loco marking.

This page of musical notation is for guitar and consists of seven systems, each with a treble and bass staff. The music is written in a key with one flat (B-flat) and a 2/4 time signature. The notation is highly technical, featuring complex rhythmic patterns and fingerings. Fingerings are indicated by numbers 1-4 above or below notes. Some systems include specific fingering sequences: the second system has '+ 1 3 + 1 3' and '4 3 1 + 3 1 +', and the fourth system has '+ 1 2 + 1 2' and '4 2 1 + 2 1 +'. Dynamic markings include 'gra.' (gracioso) and 'loco.' (loco). The piece concludes with a 'Fine' marking at the end of the seventh system.
